CEO/DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Welcome to this production of Deborah Cheetham Frailon's opera, Parrwang Lifts the Sky. The work, first commissioned by Victorian Opera and presented in collaboration with Short Black Opera, was scheduled for performances in 2021. Not to be thwarted by the pandemic lockdowns, we forged ahead and created a digital recording of the work that entertained thousands of school children forced into home schooling during that time. To have the opportunity to present it again in full theatre presentation is a gift we appreciate deeply.

This creation story from Wadawurrung Country tells the story of two adventurous young people who want to raise the darkness across their world, and how a plucky young parrwang (magpie) helps them to lift the sky. It's a delight, the characters are images from our world today, and the timeless story shows all that determination and working together can achieve much.

In this presentation of the work we welcome Australian soprano Sarah Prestwidge, now residing in London, to perform the title role of Parrwang. She is joined by Victorian Opera Prize winners for 2024 in Michaela Cadwgan and Douglas Kelly, ably supported by performers from University of Melbourne's Masters in Music (opera performance). At the musical helm, Aaron Wyatt, who is Artistic Director of Short Black Opera's Ensemble Dutala, joins Victorian Opera for the first time and brings his expert knowledge of this delightful score.

Working with Deborah on this opera has been a highlight of my directing career. Her care, expertise and continuing passion to share the stories of the First People will always be a treasured time for me. To be one of many who benefit from her generosity of spirit is another gift I value deeply.

As always, I wish to thank our funding partners of State Government of Victoria through Creative Victoria, Creative Australia and the Robert Salzer Foundation. We have many passionate patrons who support the development of young people both on the stage and in the audience. Projects such as these make perfect sense and we are delighted to present this gem of an opera for you and your extended family.

ARTISTIC DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

The most powerful tool an opera company possesses is the magical moment when the lights go down, the orchestra begins, the curtain rises. Each year we give that first experience to school children from every possible diverse background. In 2024 we are proud to present Deborah Cheetham Frailon's joyous retelling of a First Nation creation story, a story of Wadawurrung Country: Parrwang Lifts the Sky.

This opera, produced in association with Short Black Opera, was previously premiered 'on-line' in VO's Covid-affected 2021 season. We are proud to finally be able to present this powerful story 'live, onstage' so a whole new audience can finally experience this piece, an opera that celebrates our rich multicultural heritage, and recognises that it is our greatest source of strength.

The 2021 production of Parrwang Lifts the Sky, a collaboration between Victorian Opera and Short Black Opera, was the first of its kind in Australia and provided each member of the cast and creative team with an opportunity to grow in their understanding of traditional knowledge and the importance of culture, language and story. By virtue of this collaboration, Victorian Opera demonstrates a desire to move forward the process of Reconciliation in a most beautiful, practical and accessible way, creating opportunities for audiences of all ages to witness the powerful result that comes from showcasing First Nations stories through the medium of opera.

Parrwang Lifts the Sky builds on Victorian Opera's proud history of nurturing and premiering new Australian works, including those by First Nations artists. It is an important and joyous piece, and the perfect vehicle for one and all to get their first taste of opera.

Artistic Director

SYNOPSIS

Parrwang Lifts the Sky is based on a Wadawurrung creation story about the first sunrise. The Wadawurrung people are from western Victoria in the area from Geelong to Ballarat.

In this story, Parrwang the magpie is preparing for a visit from her cousin Gorngany when she is interrupted by two human children who have climbed her tree.

The humans have been living on the ground, which is covered in darkness. They are amazed by the light up in the treetops as they can see all the wonderful colours and feel the breeze. After hearing this from her new friends, Parrwang works to convince the Great Council of Birds, led by Bunjil the Eagle, to lift the veil of darkness from the land. But first she has to convince her cousin and Mr and Mrs Waa, the crows, that the humans can be trusted to share and care for Country.

To the Wadawurrung people, this led to the first sunrise and helped explain the beautiful birdsong sung by magpies at dawn.

BILLY-JAY O'TOOLE

Cultural Scenic Design

My name is Billy-Jay. I'm a proud Wadawurrung man residing on Wadawurrung country in Mount Duneed. I was born and raised on Wadawurrung country in Geelong. I am a recognised Traditional Owner and member of Wadawurrung Traditional Owners Aboriginal Corporation, where I work as a Cultural Heritage Representative. In 2019 I completed my Certificate 4 in Cultural Heritage Management, enabling me to strengthen my cultural commitment to my country and community whilst also strengthening my cultural connection to family and country.

Working on my country reignited my spirit of painting, walking country and learning from country in my Field Officer role, and I now walk in my gifting of storytelling through paint, of which I have created many stories of country. I am on a journey learning language and I like to connect this to my paintings and stories of Wadawurrung Country. My art style is a contemporary style, always reflecting the stories and colours of Wadawurrung Country with the use of bright and earthy colours and symbols, as well as the elements of country, water, mountains, sun and coast – all of which give us what we need to live.

I have established a social media page for my art called Papul Art. "Papul" is the Wadawurrung language name for Ochre, which is traditionally used for painting by Wadawurrung people.

She depicts many indigenous plants, trees, birds, often painting endangered species to highlight the importance of taking care of the land and all living things. Working with the notion that time is traversed and all is connected through layers of Dja (Country), from the Cosmos, to Sky to Under Country. Alongside the issues faced by Aboriginal women stemming from the white male and female colonial gaze.

Gilson highlights the beauty of Dja through use of natural ochres sourced by herself on Wadawurrung Dja. While at the same time challenging colonial patriarchal views, including those expressed in the arts and crafts of early Australia. Her contemporary art practice is an attempt to revive and regain the presence of cultural identity, but also to play a deeper role in preserving and highlighting cultural practices and symbology, thereby awakening culture once again.

Gibson states that "My practice aims to demonstrate the way in which contemporary Aboriginal women's art and business, including sacred and spiritual aspects, is evolving in response to the current social and political environment. We are reclaiming, reinvigorating, teaching our children, and unravelling the trauma caused by the invasion of our Country." ## ABOUT US

Victorian Opera is the state opera company of Victoria. Your state company. We make creative, accessible and relevant work for everyone while acknowledging the traditions and evolving our artform.

Recognised for our unique contribution to the country's operatic landscape, Victorian Opera joined the National Performing Arts Partnership Framework in 2021. Alongside other companies, Victorian Opera holds its rightful position in the national performing arts arena.

Commitment to the development and presentation of new Australian opera and musical theatre is forefront to our mission. We identify relative and topical material, commission and workshop new scores and librettos, and ultimately produce new productions. Victorian Opera premieres at least one new Australian opera or music theatre work each year, and have commissioned 40 new works since the company's formation.

The next generation of talent is developed from the ground up through our Emerging Artists Programs – The Victorian Opera Youth Chorus Ensemble (VOYCE), our VO Emerges project and our Emerging Artists Opera Prize scholarship. Creating future pathways for artists, artisans and technicians has become a driving focus for our organisation.

We employ hundreds of people across the creative industries, recruit some of the finest local and national singers, and collaborate with Australia's leading companies, venues and learning institutions.

We embrace the new normal and continue to perform in exceptional theatres and concert halls to give you the best and safest experience. Join us to experience the human voice, the indefinable power of music and storytelling at its finest.

And please, come as you are.
